E. P. Moore of near Dalton and John Ely Perkins of Keytesville returned home last Sunday from Carrollton after having completed the course of the Weltmer system of magnetic healing in the school at Carrollton of which Dr. J. B. Redmon, formerly of Keytesville, is at the head. Mr. Moore and Mr. Perkins were both presented with diplomas of graduation, and have donned the title of "Professor." They are quite enthusiastic over their newly-found knowledge of how to relieve the human family of the various bodily sufferings to which flesh is heir, and will locate in some good town for the practice of their profession. The editor of the COURIER is not versed in the science or magnetic healing and knows nothing of the merits that its disciples claim for it, but we do know that Profs. Moore and Perkins will be conscientious in their dealings with the public, and those who take treatment from them need not fear that they (the patients) will be buncoed out of their money.

The Criminal Calendar.

Robt. Cox, Woltz Pearman, Henry Harris and Matt Cooper, the two latter being negroes, were tried by jury in Justice J. M. DeMoss' court at Keytesville Tuesday and acquitted of the charge of unlawful seining at the "cut-off." The case was brought to Keytesville township on change of venue from Justice Chas. E. Finch's court at Brunswick.

Assistant Prosecuting Attorney J. F. Pratt went up to Clark township yesterday afternoon to appear for the state in Justice Wm. Clark's court today in a case wherein Hal Curry, Sim Lake and Lafe and Price Standley are charged with stealing a silk dress, a lap robe and a pair of slippers, all valued at $20, from the buggy of Fred Sanderson at Bethany church, two miles north of Westville, a few nights ago.

We are informed that a cutting scrape occurred between Tilford Sturgis and Frank Wiseman and probably Chas. Wiseman at Bethany church, two miles north of Westville, a week ago last Sunday night. The three youths are also charged, we understand, with disturbing religious worship. Their case was set for trial before Justice Clark last Friday, but owing to the failure of Prosecuting Attorney Collet to receive notification in time, a continuance was taken until today.

Tom Hall, col., of near Shannondale was brought before Justice J. M. DeMoss of Keytesville Monday to plead to the charge of carrying concealed weapons, also felonious assault on David E. Johnson, a reputable citizen who lives seven miles south-east of Keytesville. Hall pleaded guilty to the charge of carrying concealed weapons, and was fined $50 and costs, but didn't have the filthy lucre to foot the bill and was sent to jail. The case of felonious assault will come up for trial before Justice DeMoss tomorrow.

Marriages.

FLETCHER-TURNER:—Chas. Fletcher and Miss Laura Turner of Chranesville were married at Lingo, Macon county, Monday, Nov. 6th, Justice F. V. Jobson making the twain one.

HARTMAN-JACQUOT:—H. G. Hartman and Miss Mollie Jacquot of Brunswick were married at the Brown house in Keytesville Wednesday evening Nov. 8. Judge B. F. Fleetwood of the county court pronouncing the nuptial sentences amid his most bewitching smiles. Mr. Hartman, the bridegroom, is recently from St. Louis, and is a young man of good character and splendid business qualities, while the bride is one of Brunswick's most popular and deserving young ladies. The COURIER congratulates, and hopes for them bon voyage upon the sea of matrimony. May their joys be deep as the ocean and their sorrows as light as the foam.

PATTERSON-JOHNSON:—W. O. Patterson, a prominent young farmer, and Miss Daisy E. Johnson, a lovely daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David E. Johnson of near Shannondale, were married at Asbury chapel Wednesday evening, Nov. 8th, Rev. John Holland launching their hymeneal bark with a beautiful marriage ceremony. The attendants were Messrs. Moses Parks and Martin Hurt and Misses Vera Hamilton and Prella Wood, while C. C. Parks of Keytesville and John B. Hayes of Salisbury acted in the capacity of ushers. The wedding march was played on the organ by Mrs. Geo. Welker of Salisbury. The church was filled by friends of the happy contracting couple. Immediately after the marriage vows were taken, the bridal couple and their attendants, accompanied by a large number of guests, repaired to the home of the bridegroom, where a sumptuous supper was served. The wedding presents were numerous and costly, and evidenced the high esteem in which the bride and bridegroom are held. The COURIER heartily joins in the good cheer extended to Mr. and Mrs. Patterson in their new relations as man and wife, and trusts that their married state may be a continuous honeymoon.
